

Platoon Commander

Committed to meeting schedules and orders

Nature-loving soldier

Horrified by the thought of harming ecology

"Poisoned" soldier

Horrified by the thought of harming
the mission

Education NCO

Reminds of the ethical code and values

KKL-JNF & IDF

Green Ethical Code

Stage B Scenario

After crossing the stream, it turned out that environmental damage was caused. The case was documented and reached the media. The public is outraged. Is it right to expose who made the decision? Should the commander take responsibility? How do you deal with a mistake made in the name of "operational success"?